

NYC: WHEN THE CANDY RUNS OUT

10 NEIGHBORHOOD GUIDES TO WHAT YOU MIGHT GET INSTEAD

("I'm all out of Skittles, here take this bagel.")

Face it, New Yorkers are too busy to stock up on candy. We've illustrated a handy infographic of 10 neighborhoods to set your expectations for after the candy runs out. Looking for a new beanie or hankering for a Katz's deli sandwich? This guide will help you plan your route accordingly.

#1 WILLIAMSBURG

Can you smell the coffee? See all the plaid shirts and hats? This neighborhood is a mecca for foodies, beer/cocktail enthusiasts, and anyone who is willing to pay the price to live in this bustling hub of art and culture.

#2 CENTRAL PARK

In the warmer months, come here with books, balls or best friends! Take in that sweet grassy air and listen to the traffic in the distance. If it's cold out, take in some ice skating or sled down one of the park's numerous hills.

#3 MIDTOWN

Smell the street meat, see the billboards for the latest shows and movies, and have at least five people ask you if you want to take a bus tour. This is the place that New York is most known for, and while it has its perks, it's also the area most New Yorkers try and avoid.

#4 LOWER EAST SIDE

The LES has an abundance of offerings, particularly when it comes to food and music. Who needs candy when you can get the most legendary pastrami sandwich in New York?!

#5 UPPER EAST SIDE

Designer everything is a must, even for your dog's leash. Not into it? You can still come to enjoy some of the best art museums in the world.

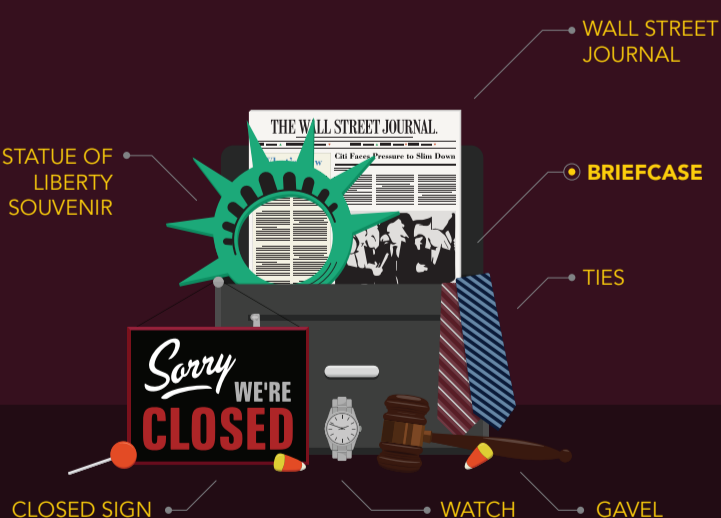

#6 CHINATOWN

Walk along Canal Street and browse the assortment of items for sale, from fresh fish to beauty goods and accessories. Or wander down a quieter street to discover lots of great food and find knockoff bags.

#7 FINANCIAL DISTRICT

Here after 5pm? You're out of luck, everything is closed. However, during the week it's one of the world's most prominent and bustling centers of business and finance.

#8 GREENWICH VILLAGE

The Village is one of the city's most historic neighborhoods, and has been the birthplace to a variety of artists, musicians, and social movements. Today, it is the perfect place to find interesting people, shops, and landmarks.

#9 CHELSEA

There are a variety of unique experiences to be had in Chelsea. Explore the unending assortment of art galleries, take a long walk down the picturesque High Line, or stop for lunch at the bustling Chelsea Market.

#10 EAST VILLAGE

While still maintaining its reputation as a center of bohemian culture, you'll also find an array of wine and cocktail bars, fancy restaurants, and organic grocery stores.
