Mura Masa is certainly keeping the anticipation for his debut, self-titled album high. The young artist has gifted us with various singles and remixes throughout the entire month of June, most recently teaming up with Gorillaz creator Damon Albarn to drop "Blu." Not even 24 hours later and Mura Masa has blessed us once again, this time with an infectiously smooth new single "Second 2 None" feat. Christine and the Queens.

Mura Masa takes a less is more approach with "Second 2 None" a much-appreciated move that

About

Sitting Wildly Still with 20syl's "Inertia"

20syl might be one of the hardest working, and most underrated, producers alive today. He is the Dave Grohl of dance music, serving as the brainchild behind Hocus Pocus, C2C, and Alltta, his most recent collaboration with California's own Mr. J Medeiros. Each one of these projects has created a number of crafty dance cuts but his solo stuff is where he seems to shine the brightest. "Inertia" immediately slaps you in the face with a funky, repetitive vocal sample then rolls into a crunchy groove with epic, airy undertones. The real magic of this song lies in the numerous female vocal samples and the haunting organ breakdown, that immediately drops us back into the beginning vocal jam. Mmmm, so damn good.

The Slow Build Of Trickski's "Pill Collins" Is What Dreams Are Made Of

By admin | June 4th, 2017 | Categories: Uncategorized

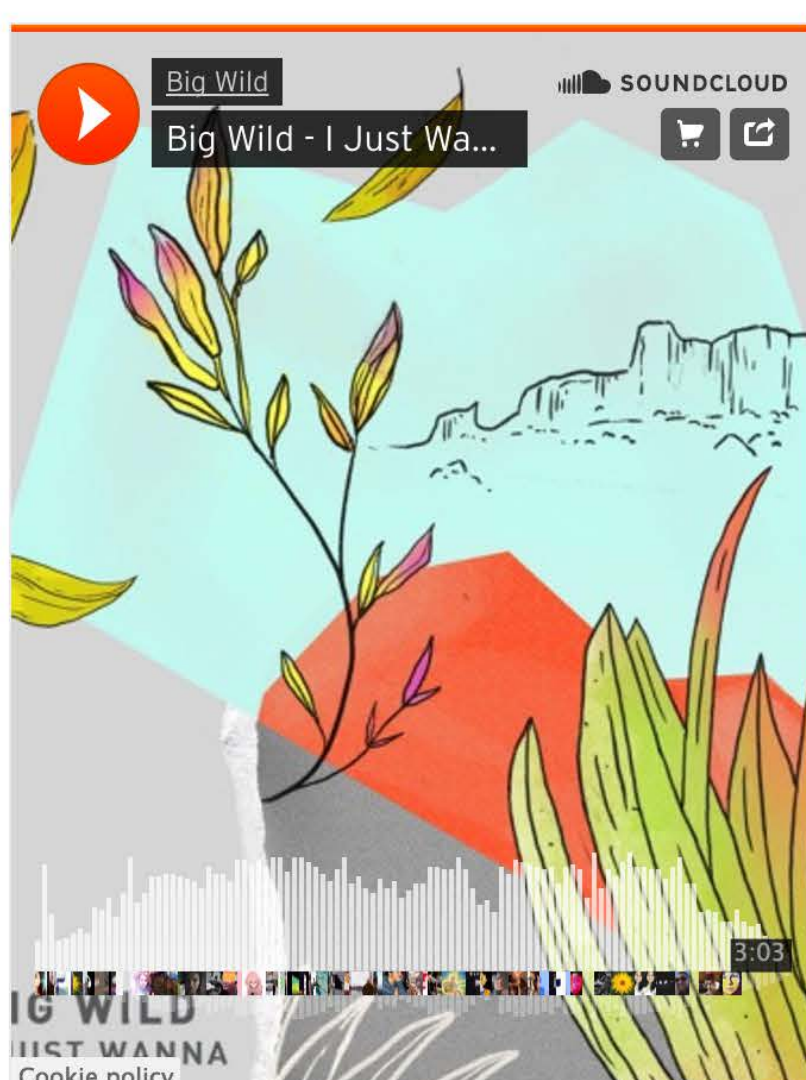

Being half-hindered and half-accelerated by ADD my entire life, I typically get a bit bored with songs that feature a slow, burning build-up, but this track is definitely the exception to that rule. Now while we know this tune isn't exactly new, coming out nearly 7 years ago, it's still as fresh as ever and we are betting our chips on the fact that you probably haven't heard it before. Clocking in at 100 beats per minute, Trickski's "Pill Collins" slight rhythmic nuances, coupled with the driving piano crescendo, persistently works the listener into a beautiful frenzy. Since 2005, Yannick Labbé and Daniel Becker, have been dropping slowed-down suspense funk athenms, and we believe this is their finest work to date. "Pill" is 50% disco, 50% deep house, and 100% pure gold.

Solardo Brings the Heat With "The Spot"

By admin | May 31st, 2017 | Categories: Uncategorized

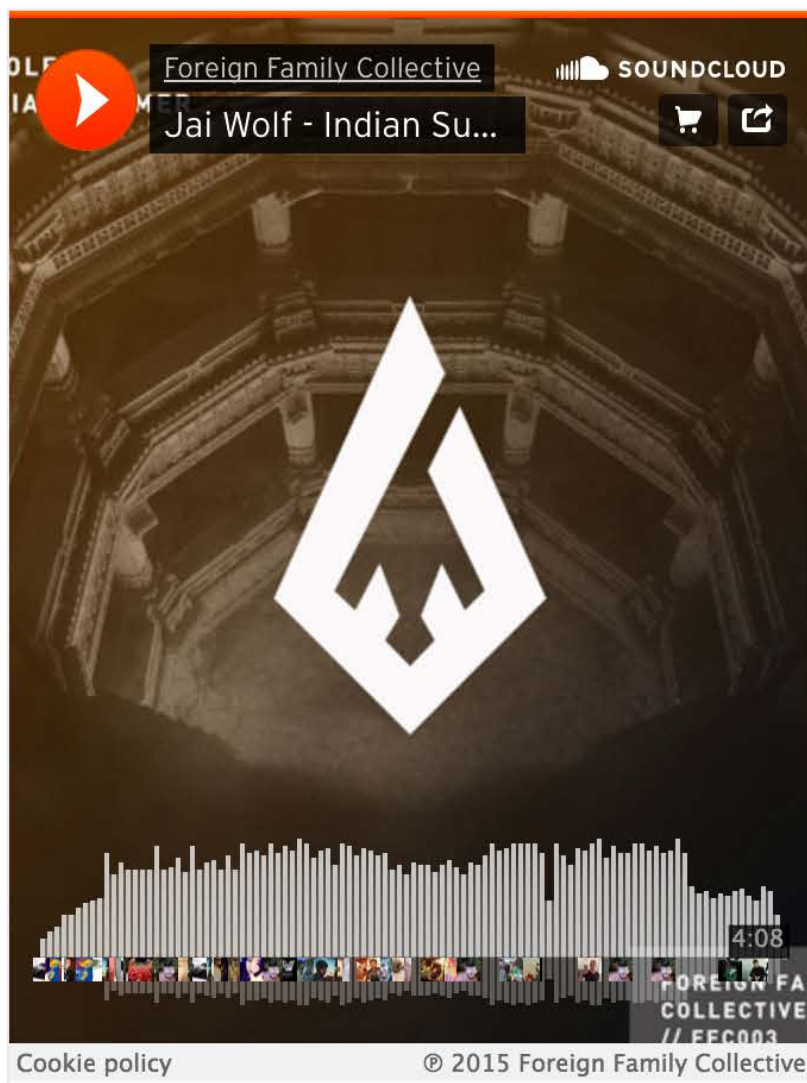

Hailing from the UK, Mark Richards and James Eliot are Soldaro. Having previously had a long history in other genres, these guys are now one of the hottest duos in the house and techno scene. "The Spot" brings to your earballs a tight groove and a thick bassline. This one will melt faces in a London dancehall or on the Playa in Black Rock City. It's diverse like that. Crank it up and Rock With This.

"I Just Wanna" Rock With This Big Wild Jam

By admin | May 31st, 2017 | Categories: Uncategorized

Every now and then an artist comes around that makes you scratch your head and ask yourself "how is this guy not bigger?". We keep asking ourselves this question about Jackson Stell a.k.a. Big Wild. The guy keeps delivering sick tune after sick tune and yet he is still in small font on the festival lineups. We believe this is going to change soon and it's because of tracks like "I Just Wanna". It's funky, delivers epic build-ups and drops. He's currently on tour and we highly suggest you check him out. Keep rocking us Jackson!

Jai Wolf's "Indian Summer" Just Never Gets Old

By admin | May 31st, 2017 | Categories: Uncategorized

Deciding which song Rock With This wanted to share for our inaugural post was an easy one. While this song isn't particularly new and there's a pretty good chance you might have heard it already, "Indian Summer" was the inspiration for us creating our blog. This song, and really Jai Wolf in general, is everything that's good about music. It's catchy, groovy, and unpretentious, while also spiritually uplifting. It's the kind of jam that turns a wedding party into a massive wedding pool party rager, where your father (and every other guest) ends up cannonballing into the pool, suit and all. I know this because it happened at my wedding. If you are familiar with "Indian Summer" then you know it's perfect for any setting...in your car, on the beaches of Mexico, or to close out your upcoming DJ set. If you haven't heard it, well then you're welcome, as it just might be your new favorite song.

Fonts

Acumin Pro SemiCondensed

Light
Medium

Other san serif faunts will work well too, like Helvetica Neue.

Text

Titles are best at two lines but three lines can be accomodated.

Descriptions are best at four lines of text, but more can be accomodated.

Spacing

Ample white space between all elements is critical for readability and clarity. This will reduce the 'cluttered' feeling of the Precedent website.

Actions

Default State

Hover State

Read More

Active State

Once Card or button is clicked, Card expands to the full view, like the first one, and the button turns to Share.

When Share is clicked, other options could be shown like, Facebook, Twitter, Link and so on.

Default State

Hover and Active States

Menu

Since the site's focus is listening and reading, there are no separate pages. The site has one page and the menu is a "Slider". The galaxy image is a placeholder.

"Here's our archive" can, if desired, link to a page where users can browse older content.

Images

The slanted line element can be whatever you want it to be, or you can use this one. A subtle pattern, unlike a uniform background, visually delineates each Media Card.

The "Subscribe" card can stay at the bottom or be placed at regular intervals (after every 5 cards, for example), can live in the footer only or as a popup.
