RACING HEARTBEAT / FIRST DEATH

The heart no longer races when hearing the music play, tryna' pull up. Seems like time has stopped. Oh that would be my first death I been always afraid of. If this can no longer resonate No longer make my heart vibrate . Then like this may be how I die my first death But what if that moment's right now. Right now. Heartbeat pulsing slow in my ears Try to flee but back into the maw No song affects me anymore Crying out a silent cry. Heartbeating — read more

REPRESENTS ITSELF

BLANK CANVAS / DEPTH

It is the frustrating moment when you expect your code to work when in reality it didn't. The moment when you have to repeat the same process over and over. The humiliating feeling when you realize you don't know as much as you think. The helpless feeling when you tried everything you could think of but still don't get the result needed. The daunting feeling of looking at a new language for the first time. The blank screen represents itself.

Developing can be frustrating, difficult, cruel, humiliating, boring and cold-hearted. It can take hours before something works. But, at the end of the day, it somehow is still all worth it.

ANGER & FLOW / COGS

I wanted to curse, couldn't focus, went outside and started running. But, it is that process that makes the minor accomplishments feel huge. The feeling of having pushed yourself to your limits and then some. The heroic act of having done something uncomfortable for a long period of time.

There are also other times when you are in the flow. The moment you know where you are and where you need to go. In your head, all the cogs are running and the parts are clicking.

3 SECONDS

Most of my time was spent looking at the clock. One minute passed, two minutes passed, three. Hoping that the next time I would check, one hour would have passed. I love the seemingly infinite layers this craft seems to have. Like a union pulling away abstraction layers of the former unknown. You could turn off the monitor and see in your head which pieces to move. Like a master chess player. You just keep going and this blank page which just a moment ago was a rough boulder is now starting to look like an elegant sculpture. You are able to read this foreign language and speak with the locals.

HEARTBEAT PULSING SLOW

There is no choice, my grandma said as I was asking how she kept going. She recently fell and got injured. Her age is getting closer to 80 and her health is getting further from ideal. Still, she was talking about standing up for herself and going to the gym. She made the hard choice of fighting, but for her, it was the only choice. Anyone who stops learning is old, whether at twenty or eighty. Anyone who keeps learning stays young. The greatest achievement in life is to keep your mind young.

The thought of never being enough is a negative state of mind. Not a negative one. It is not looking backward with dissatisfaction. It's looking forward and wanting to grow. We are never done improving. There is no perfect version of ourselves. No golden age. The moment you stop learning is the moment you lost.

Anyone who stops learning is old, whether at twenty or eighty. Anyone who keeps learning stays young. The greatest thing in life is to keep your mind young. Quoted by Henry Ford
